DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ludwig (U.S. 6,256,498) and further in view of Laursen et al (U.S. 6,233,608).

As per claims 1,14 Ludwig disclosed a method for sending local information from a wireless handset to a web server comprising the following steps: (a) receiving a service request from a user of tile wireless handset, wherein the service request comprises a type of local information needed to carry out the service request: (b) acquiring the local information (col. 3, lines 42-46);

However Ludwig did not disclose in detail (c) sending the local information to the Web server via uniform resource locator. Wherein the phone dialing process is modified to send the local information as part of the uniform resource locator.

In the same field of endeavor Laursen disclosed the communication protocol in the Internet is the well known Hyper Text Transfer Protocol or HTTP and runs on TCP and controls the connection of a well-known Hyper Text Markup Language Web browser, or HTML Web browser, to a Web server and the exchange of information there between (col. 6, lines 33-38). Each mobile phone is assigned to device ID which can be a phone number of the phone or a combination of an IP address and a port number for example: 204.163.165.132.01905 where 204.163.165.132 is the IP address and 09105 is the port number (col. 7, lines 57-61). The screen prompts user what to proceed with the keypad, with a sequence of keypad entries and through the phone, a user can interactively communicate with a server through the ainet, link server and the Internet (col. 9, lines 28-31).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have incorporated sending the local information to the Web server via uniform resource locator. Wherein the phone dialing process is modified to send the local information as part of the uniform resource locator as taught by Laursen in the method of Ludwig to make the system efficient in terms of communication with data network through wireless means.

3. As per claim 2 Ludwig-Laursen disclosed wherein the service request received in step (a) also comprises the URL address of the Web server (Laursen, col. 3, lines 55-61).

4. As per claims 3,12 Ludwig-Laursen disclosed wherein step (c) comprises extracting the URL address from the service request, appending the local information to the URL address, and navigating a wireless browser to the URL address (Laursen, col. 8, lines 32-39).

5. As per claims 4,8 Ludwig-Laursen disclosed wherein the wireless browser is an HDML/WML browser (Laursen, col. 6, lines 38-48).

6. As per claim 5,15 Ludwig-Laursen disclosed wherein the local information comprises the geographic location of the handset (Ludwig, col. 7, lines 59-67).

7. As per claims 6,16 Ludwig-Laursen, disclosed wherein the geographic location is obtained from GPS data provided by a position determination system associated with the handset (Ludwig, col. 7, lines 36-57).

8. As per claim 7 rejected under the same limitations as per claim 1 plus additional limitations where Ludwig-Laursen disclosed a method for using a wireless browser to send local information from a wireless handset to a Web server or to dial a telephone number comprising the following steps: (a) receiving an input from a user of the wireless handset (Laursen, col. 8,

Art Unit: 2141

(Laursen, col. 8, lines 40-53), wherein the input comprises either a service request containing a type of local information needed to carry out the service request, or a telephone number to be dialed (Laursen, col. 7, lines 57-64); (b) determining whether the input comprises a service request or a telephone number (Laursen, col. 13, lines 40-50); (c) if the input is a telephone number, terminating the browser and dialing the telephone number (Laursen, col. 9, lines 4-19); and (d) if the input is a service request, acquiring the local information and sending the local information to the Web server via the uniform resource locator (Ludwig, col. 3, lines 42-46). Wherein the phone dialing process is modified to send the local information as part of the uniform resource locator (Laursen, col. 9, lines 28-31).

9. As per claim 9 Laursen disclosed wherein in step (a), if the input is a telephone number, the telephone number is inserted into the NUMBER field following an HDML/WML CALL command, and if the input is a service request, the type of local information needed and the URL address of the Web server is inserted into the NUMBER field following the HDML/WML CALL command (col. 6, lines 34-65).

10. As per claim 10 Laursen disclosed wherein step (b) comprises determining whether the NUMBER field includes a local information type (col. 7, lines 20-35).

11. As per claim 11 Laursen disclosed wherein step (b) comprises determining whether the NUMBER field includes a URL address (col. 3, lines 24-31).

12. As per claim 13 Ludwig disclosed wherein the local data comprises the GPS position of the handset (col. 4, lines 61-67).
